

Children of the Candy Corn

'Good?' 'Evil?' I think that too many of my kind indulge your kind far too much by letting you think that you may judge us. It is irrelevant. We enter your offspring's lives, we enter their minds, and you may watch us do that, or not, as you please.

We are not wasteful, though. Your species has adapted itself to our needs by now; our feeding on your brains has minimal impact. If your young end up addicted to sugar, well, what of it? Be grateful we do not require more.

Now have them eat their candy. I am hungry.
