

*Cats! In! SPACE!

To be honest, I've never understood why rich people now freeze-dry their dead pets, then send them up to the Moon. OK, I understand that it's because they're weird, but still. It's expensive.

Also, awkward. See, I got to be the custodian on duty - I don't know why they hired me, either - when the alien First Contact away team appeared. I guess they thought the Eternal Rest Lunar Sanctuary was some sort of religious shrine?

Well, maybe it is. But it was almost really bad luck for Earth that the Head Alien was from a feline species...
