“I want a sandwich.”

“An evil sandwich?”

“No... well, alright: yes. An evil sandwich. With extra pathos.”

“I hate pathos. It gives me gas.”

“Well, you’re not eating it. Speaking of which: you eating those regrets?”

“Knock yourself out. I tried them because they’re that new wistful flavor. Not bad, but I grew up eating bitter regrets, you know?”

“Oh, yeah. Mom used to make Three-Hate Chili; we’d use bitter regrets for scooping. Damn, that was tasty.”

“...I don’t get why humans don’t like this stuff.”

“Same here. Too bad we can’t eat it all before it gets to ‘em.”
