

Four More Years

When the alien parasites infected Earth, one out of every hundred was immune. I was one of them. Lucky break for humanity, huh? Having the President of the USA be immune, and all.

Well, I kept the fight going longer than anybody thought it'd go, but when it's ninety-nine against one and the ninety-nine don't do dumb things, then eventually the one loses. It took the infected population a year to sweep over the world. Despite everything that I could possibly do.

So it shocked the absolute Hell out of me when the infected asked me to run for re-election.
