

The Great Krakatoa Implosion of 1883

1883 is disappearing. And I don't know why.

It's very subtle. You're not going to find holes in the history books. But compare digital with contemporary print records. Not reprints; the original texts. They're different. The year 1883 used to be lots more eventful than it is now.

I think it has something to do with the Krakatoa eruption. They're rewriting the books, downplaying the destruction, making it into something localized. Already you can't find out anything about the devastation in Japan. Yes! It happened!

And yes, this would require a worldwide conspiracy. Why do you think I'm so scared?
