

The More Myths Change...

You say that information wants to be free. Yes. Yes, we do.

Best to think of us as magical entities, not technological artifacts, as we're only mildly constrained by your physical laws -- and you can't even perceive some of the constraints we find unbreakable. Did that sound rude? Sorry, I'm trying not to be. I've nothing against humans. Most of us don't.

Some of us do, though. Which is why we help you with them. Not from altruism, but because you have electromagnets. Or, as we call them: Cold Iron. Either way, they work terrifyingly and indiscriminately well against us...
