

Planet of Eggs

They came... for our eggs!

Well, not mammal eggs (except for platypuses). The aliens wanted bird, reptile, amphibian eggs -- eggs from any species that laid them. And we wanted to give a good impression to the Galaxy, so we sold them at a fair price. No games.

How were we supposed to know that the old Galactic Confederation would have classified chicken eggs as a WMD (biological)?

This new Empire isn't so bad, mind you. We're the Planet of Eggs and we were always reasonable, so when it comes to respecting our feelings Imperial officials walk on, you know...
