

Fermentir

There are drink recipes that only exist as theoretical concepts, because you can't get the ingredients.

Fermented ambrosia? Wine made from grapes grown in a bubble of time inside an event horizon? Triple-distilled regret? You just can't find that stuff, even if the most advanced math now says you can.

But as long as there are hyper-rich people, there will be a market for impossible drinks. That's where we fermentirs come in. If you meet our price, we will get you your unattainable tipple.

...Yes, obviously that's a lie. We just give them really good Scotch. But they never check!
