

A Whiff of Buckshot

Actually, some of my best customers are trolls and ogres. Not, I assure you, the savage ones. No, I sell guns to the ones who looked at human society and realized there'd always be work for someone who could pull a tree out by the roots, as long as they didn't eat people.

So, why do they need shotguns? The same reasons as anybody else, really: hunting (easier to shoot deer than chase them down), and self-defense. Wild trolls and ogres have very dim views about their civilized cousins, you see. Why not take advantage of the fruits of civilization?
