Do not think of the music as being the message. Rather consider it as the matrix in which messages can be constructed. To put it another way: the music is the language used to form transmissible thoughts. Specific thoughts, and their transmission method, must be both created separately.

The distinction is small, but it is what psionics needs for our Discipline to work. “Use the Beat to voice the Thought; use the Thought to inflict your Will.” Do as you deem fit, and remember: we need no timid rationalizations to inflict our Will.

Leave human regrets behind with the Beat.
