

Poor Humans

Humans are simply the stolidest species in the galaxy. It's incredibly difficult to get them to take sides on any of The Great Questions. It's not that they're stupid; they just don't care.

It'd be offensive if it weren't so pitiful. This fundamental lack of basic curiosity about the truly important things in life infects everything about their art, culture, even their society. Their interior lives are so barren, it's a wonder they don't die of sheer boredom.

We are so blessed to not be them! No matter how painful our lives, how grim our fates. We're better off. Truly.
